5 seek election to school board June 8

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Five candidates—including incumbent Romulus Community School Board members Kenneth Berlinn and Pat Patterson—filed for the June 8 school election Monday.

Romulus voters also will be given an opportunity to vote on a "Schools of Choice" referendum. The tentative language for the question asks, "Shall the Romulus Community Schools, Wayne County, Michigan, have schools of choice within the school district?"

The other three candidates include Debra Hoffman, assistant city finance director; Donna Lindquist Capron, a new arrival from Illinois, and Pauline Calhoun, a lab technician with Kerr Manufacturing Co. of Romulus.

While the candidates all agree on their hope that the campaign will not take on sexist overtones with two male incumbents facing three female challengers, the challengers feel that issues abound this year.

Challengers expressed concerns regarding school district finances, numerous 7-0 school board votes, low Michigan Educational Assessment Program scores, the number of trips Romulus school board members take and the status of the current construction effort based on an approved $45 million capital program that involves heavy computer opportunities for students.

Berlinn, 57, was appointed to the Romulus School board in 1981 and has since been re-elected in 1982, 1984 and 1988. He also was appointed last year to the Romulus Planning Commission and is serving as the school board representative since.

He has served both as president and vice president of the board during his tenure, but holds neither office at this time.

Berlinn said he is seeking a fourth term, "because I am concerned about the future of our young people and the quality of education our young people are receiving."

Berlinn added, "I have been a major part of the district's refurbishing of buildings and our dream of the future in education, going into the next century with the new technology in education. I want to see these projects completed."

Patterson, 46, who is now completing his second four-year term, stated that he, "would like to see the current technology implementation and building projects completed."

He has lived in Romulus all his life and is a 1964 graduate of Romulus Senior High School and attended Alpena Community College. He currently is operations foreman of the Sun Pipe Line Company.

Patterson said he has served both as school board president and vice president during his eight-year tenure. He currently serves as vice president.

Hoffman has lived in Romulus for 36 years and has served as assistant finance director for four years. Both she and her husband, Michael, are Romulus Senior High School graduates. She also is attending Wayne County Community College pursuing a degree in accounting.

The Hoffmans also are parents of two school children, one in kindergarten and one in the fourth grade.

Hoffman said she is concerned about the school dis-

Perot visit awaited

Volunteers learn quickly on the campaign trail to Presidential election

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The Belleville-Wayne area volunteer chairman of the Michigan "Perot for President" effort was chased off the Belleville Post Office property Monday after gathering about 50 signatures.

Perot, a Texas billionaire, is seeking a place on the November ballot in Michigan as an independent candidate for president. Local volunteers are seeking to gather about 37,000 voter signatures by April 16, so that they can be assured of having the needed 26,656 signatures demanded by Michigan election officials.

Then the signature collection drive will speed up again to collect additional names to send a, "loud and clear message to Congress that the American people are mad and want a major change in government," a Perot spokesman said.

Donna Collins--the local chairman--returned to a "right of way" portion near the post office on Tuesday morning and resumed her collection drive.

Collins revealed that she had set up about 9 a.m. Monday and after collecting about 50 voter signatures was asked by Belleville Post Office officials to remove her materials from the property there.

As the local Perot effort is staffed by many first-time volunteers, Collins sought out an opinion on the issue from many sources. She was finally advised to stay in the "right of way" if she wanted to collect such signatures.

Many of the area coordinators were called to Romulus Tuesday night for a first major get-together, as a prelude to asking Perot himself to make a stop here early this spring.

Perot was quoted (shortly after the Michigan primary) as stating, "If concerned Americans work to put me on 50 statewide ballots this fall, I will campaign for president."

Michigan volunteers--and Judy Werner of Grosse Ile in particular--took him at his word and have opened a statewide headquarters at the Royce Hotel in Romulus. Werner was named the state campaign chairman.

Their efforts were spurred by recent political caucuses such as one in Vermont that showed Democratic front runner Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton coming up third in a two-man race and political surveys showing voters are heavily opposed to Clinton and his Democratic opponent, former California Gov. Jerry Brown and even President Bush.

Clancy Eldredge, Perot's campaign coordinator, revealed Perot's 800 numbers went into action April 1 at the

"We were not surprised to get 200 calls initially from places like Flint (suffering from plant closing in the next few years), but we also are now getting large numbers of calls from the small towns surrounding the large cities."

- Clancy Eldredge

Royce Hotel. A few glitches were reported in the first 24 hours of the largely volunteer effort.

An official print out given to area coordinators last Thursday entitled "Amateurs Can't Run a Viable Campaign" admitted the biggest problem in the young campaign--was the fact the volunteers left the hotel campaign offices only a short time before the 800 lines were operable at 6 p.m.

"Then at 8 p.m., just as the boards were to go down for the night, the phone banks exploded with potential calls and all we could do is shake our heads," Eldredge said.

Perot area coordinators were told, "We blew it. And quite honestly we will be shaky the next few days, until we coordinate block times with all of you," the print out concluded.

The tongue-in-cheek (Amateurs Can't) headline on the print out was taken from a televised quote made by a political science professor from Southern Methodist University.

Eldredge explained that the 800 numbers will be answered from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily. "I urge callers to be patient if they get busy signals, as the full team of volunteers is not on duty yet."

After the needed signatures are collected, Eldredge said, and the campaign goes into full swing the phones will be answered from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.

"We were not surprised to get 200 calls initially from places like Flint (suffering from plant closings in the next few years), but we also are now getting large numbers of calls from the small towns surrounding the large cities."

Eldredge, of Grosse Ile, who also serves as Perot's state media coordinator, is on hand daily to greet the press at the fourth floor campaign site and answer many of the questions on Perot's stance on many political issues.

Since most of Perot's campaign platforms have yet to be developed--Eldredge has been limited in the early set-up days of the campaign to simply giving the press a mini-autobiography of Perot, names of campaign coordinators and a few choice themes such as "No Longer Powerless", "Are You Mad Enough Yet?", "Perot? Sure He's Wealthy. But You Know What That Means...He Can't Be Bought!" and "Not a White Knight...Just the Right Knight."

One of the first volunteers to sign on Perot's local team was Martha Andrews of Romulus. Andrews said she got involved because she wasn't happy with the current choices of presidential candidates and hopes Perot could be that "someone" who can maybe do something in Washington to straighten out the current political mess.

Potential volunteers, who are calling the local 800 numbers, are basically asking "How can I get involved?", Eldredge said.

"We stress this is not a (normal) political drive," Eldredge said. "It is a public outcry for change in America."

The initial drive for signed petitions in support of putting Perot on the Michigan ballot calls for the gathering of 26,656 such signatures, Eldredge said. "Because of potential challengers we will set a goal of 37,000 such signatures," he said, and later, "seek hundreds of thousands of signatures to show that Perot is not just a populist candidate."

Eldredge said, "We have already received all kinds of pledges of signatures from Willow Run General Motors plant employees as well as various Ford Motor Company Assembly workers."

Perot will not accept any major endorsements from groups at this time, Eldredge said, "Because we don't want anyone to think we are captives of any pressure groups."

Residents urged to place trash at curbside early

Romulus area homeowners are urged to place their weekly trash at curbside before 7 a.m. each collection day.

James Panos, department of public works director, said with the beginning of a new garbage hauler contract the time of local collections may vary a little, but will remain on the same day of the week.

Household trash can be placed at the curb the night before pickup, Panos said, if it is more convenient for the local resident.

Newspaper cited by council

Members of the Romulus City Council approved a resolution citing The Romulus Roman for increasing the local news coverage despite losing the official newspaper designation this year.

The resolution sponsored by veteran Councilman Ellis Pennington was seconded by Councilman Jimmie Raspberry, who quickly added "I'd like to add to that resolution that this is the 100th year The Romulus Roman has served this community."

Members of the council then supported the resolution.

Earlier this year, council members voted to designate The News-Herald, a downriver bi-weekly, as the official city newspaper by a vote of three in favor and three abstaining.

Audited circulation figures indicate that The News-Herald is delivering about 600 papers in the city while The Romulus Roman distributes more than 3,000 papers in the City of Romulus.

Good Friday service planned

A combined Good Friday Christian service is planned for 1 p.m. at the Ball Road Tabernacle.

Pastor Neil Swanger revealed that his associate, Janette Post, the Rev. J.D. Landis of the Community United Methodist Church, and Rev. Donald McClellan of the Romulus Wesleyan Church, also will take part in the "Seven Last Words of Christ" service.

Followers of Christ from any church are invited to take part in the service, Swanger said.

Those in attendance will be asked to sign a small sheet of paper, he said, and at the conclusion of the service the names will be nailed to a 5-foot wooden cross to symbolize their commitment to the sacrifice Christ made on the cross for sinners.

Chamber elects 5 as directors

Five directors were elected to the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce last month.

Two new board members elected to three year terms were Marie Vanatta of the local Holiday Inn and Cliff Smith of Kelsey Hayes.

Re-elected were incumbents Dave Paul, Gary Sampson and Donna Hoevemeyer.

The chamber also announced members will be urged to tour the Detroit Metro Airport on April 21.

The group first will have a luncheon at the Detroit Area Marriott at 11:30 a.m. and then will be given a bus tour of the airport by Airport Director Robert Braun.

The cost is $10 each and the reservation deadline is April 17.

Adolescence talk slated at library

Has your child's adolescence got you down?

Sam Olive, school psychologist for the Romulus Community Schools, will be presenting a talk on "Adolescence Through Junior High" at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Romulus Public Library.

Adolescents are often confronted with social problems and pressures beyond their ability to cope and such pressures are having a devastating impact on our children, Olive said.

Olive will center his talk on "What's wrong with these kids today?"

Students given mock interviews

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Graduating Romulus High School seniors face a tough job market search this year, because of the slumping regional economy.

In an attempt to offer some help to students, the Romulus schools Business Partnership for Education program has been busy preparing seniors for that limited job market—by giving them all the skills and confidence needed to tackle their first job interviews.

Following weeks of classroom training under the guidance of Phyllis Cebulla, 20 seniors engaged in 20-minute mock interviews with area business personnel officials last Thursday. Earlier sessions planned last winter were cancelled by a heavy snowstorm.

"Half of the time was spent in actually engaging in an interview with department heads or personnel department representatives," Cebulla said, "and the remainder of the time was spent with the personnel representative critiquing the student's effort during the interview."

Each senior taking part in the program learned how to conduct an interview professionally—and then got an instant feedback on how he or she did. The senior can now use that critique to improve his or her interview style.

Terence B.H. Sims, manager of the Manufacturing Engineering Division of Aztec Manufacturing Corp. of Romulus, commented that he felt the sessions with the students went well. "We were able to give them some valuable guidelines in their job search efforts."

"We wanted to help them reach their goals," Sims said, "and we tried as hard as we could to do that effectively last Thursday."

In addition to Aztec, the students—based on their career goals—were interviewed at General Motors, Woodbridge Corp. or Edgewood Tool and Manufacturing Co.

Noise solutions still sought

At a recent quarterly meeting with Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara, local mayors and township supervisors expressed their concerns about airport noise.

Wayne Mayor Ken Warfield and Romulus Mayor Beverly McNamara questioned McNamara about the time line for property acquisition near the airport.

"They are done with their test frame now, so we made our concerns known that we have more noise problems," Warfield said.

McNamara was very firm about making sure the families and businesses most affected by the noise are considered.

Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport officials are constructing 40-foot berms to relieve the ground level noise from spreading from the airport to neighborhoods adjoining the airport.

McNamara inquired about the continued growth of the airport and its affect on Romulus real estate property and the roads surrounding the airport.

McNamara said he appreciated the input by McNamara and Warfield on the issues they raised on behalf of the residents.

"I know they both are hearing it about the noise from their residents," McNamara said. "And, I want them to rest assured we will continue to do as much as we can to put an end to this."

McNamara said the local officials which also include Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett; Inkster Mayor Edward Bivens; Dearborn Mayor Michael Guido; Taylor Mayor Cameron Priebe; Sumpter Township Trustee Arness Cox, and Garden City Mayor James Plakas were very challenging.

"Beverly, for example, was most concerned that any business and residents who have to be relocated, be able to remain in Romulus," McNamara said. "And I couldn't agree with her more."

Since the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) recently completed a 180-day test of flight patterns over areas surrounding the airport, the county has been preparing for an Environmental Impact Study (EIS) by the FAA, which will decide if the largely popular test flight patterns will be implemented on a permanent basis.

McNamara asked local leaders for their assistance

"The effort we are extending this year," Cebulla said "is to show students how to be prepared—by applying to appropriate firms, dressing properly for interviews, preparing to put themselves in the best possible light and finally knowing their own strongest marketable points."

The partnership program is designed to help the student make a positive transition from the school to the work place by emphasizing three skills—academic, personal and teamwork, Cebulla concluded.

Ed Clark, coordinator of the Partnership for Education program, said it was exciting to hear the student's reactions aboard the bus while returning from the personnel sessions.

"They took the constructive criticism well," Clark said, "and the sessions opened their eyes for possible job opportunities beyond the fast food range. One even was given the interviewer's telephone number to use as a reference."

and input.

"Where our local officials, especially Mayors McNamara and Warfield, have been so helpful is in helping us decide exactly what the scope of the EIS will be," McNamara said. "Each of these communities has a large stake in this issue and we want to make certain all of their concerns are addressed in the study."

"They have all been vocal, and we appreciate that."

On addition to the study that has already taken place as a result of the meetings is the fanning out of departures to the south of the airport. This will be in addition to the actions taken during the 180-day test period.

McNamara said if another concern arises for a local community after the meetings, requests can be submitted in writing and he urges mayors and supervisors to do so.

He also said that he wants to assure citizens they will have ample opportunity to comment on the proposed air traffic changes during public hearings and by calling the airport's noise hotline at 942-3222.

The county expects to complete the EIS by October of this year.

Burglars steal high school safe

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Burglars entered Romulus Senior High School and several homes in the past week and escaped with cash, bonds, sports style clothing, a small safe and a handgun.

Romulus police said weekend thieves walked in an unlocked door in the rear of the school at 9650 Wayne Road and then smashed a reinforced glass window to enter to athletic office.

There they removed a small amount of cash from a file cabinet and then entered the school store and removed sports style clothing and a small safe containing money. The culprits apparently rolled the safe out the door on casters and placed it in their truck, according to police reports of the incident. The safe, valued at $800, was not recovered.

In another breaking and entry, power tools valued at about $1,000 were stolen from a house under construction in the 16000 block of Farnum late last Friday night. Police said the burglars kicked in the front door to gain access to the home.

A color television set valued at $150 was also stolen from a house on Streamway. The victim told police, they had left the home briefly Sunday and returned to find the TV gone.

Another burglary victim in the 8000 block of Whitehorn reported the front door pried open and a handgun and 10 U.S. Savings Bonds were stolen. The value was listed as $1,600.

Car thieves were also busy over recent days, police said, as 22 hub caps were reported taken from cars parked in the airport hotel area.

strict low MEAP scores and feels that her financial background should be an asset to the school board.

Hoffman said, "I am disturbed that a student in our schools could achieve an A average and still not be able to pass the MEAP tests."

In addition, she said, "Our children are too often told that although they may have excelled in the Romulus School District, they cannot compete with children of other school districts, when it comes to college."

Capron, who moved to Romulus in August 1991, said she was inspired to seek a school board position because of the limited parental involvement within the school district.

A former Illinois resident, Capron also feels the current school board is a "rubber stamp" for the administration and feels that the teacher contract needs to be settled as quickly as possible.

Capron said she attended a meeting of area school parents and was, "impressed with comments from out-of-town parents, who said she was lucky to move to a town with such a good school system."

She said they asked her how much research she had done to select Romulus schools and said she had done none. "We just liked the house we purchased in Romulus and were lucky to get a fine school system at the same time."

Capron said she was urged by school authorities to repeat her comment to local mothers and was discouraged to find they were "outraged" with her views.

Calhoun, 47, who has served on a credit union board for more than 10 years, claims she is running in an effort, "to curb the waste of taxpayers dollars by the school administration."

The mother of a high school student, she has lived all her life in Romulus and is a 1963 graduate of Romulus Senior High School.

Hearing set April 27

Trans Overseas Corp., an international freight handling corporation, plans to enlarge the company Romulus warehouse facility and add five new jobs.

James P. Gannon, Trans Overseas president, was granted a public hearing date of April 27 regarding his request to establish an Industrial Development District.

Construction is slated for April 13, Gannon's letter stated, and will add 48,000 square feet to the warehouse at an estimated cost of $740,000.

The property is located at 28000 Goddard Road, west of Inkster Road.

Fireworks bids requested

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Members of the Romulus City Council approved the letting of bids for the July 4 fireworks display, various carpeting, janitorial supplies, pest control and water service parts.

The fireworks bids will include enough incendiaries for an uninterrupted 30 minute display, insurance for the event and trained pyrotechnicians to set up and fire the display. Applications for a permit for the display must be in Fire Chief William Greenslat's office no later than June 1.

The fireworks will be displayed at dusk July 4 at Elmer Johnson Park, 9755 Ozga Road.

Carpeting bids will be sought for City Hall, finance and water Departments, city clerk's office, police department and the Romulus Library.

Department of Public Works Director James Panos also received approval for bid letting for janitorial supplies, water service repair parts as well as a pest control contract for three years for City Hall, the recreation department, 34th District Court, the department of public works, Romulus Library, Help Center and police headquarters.

The pests to be controlled are rats, mice, roaches, silver fish and ants.

City approves road costs

A $55,000 cost of right of way and easement procedures for the planned $2 million Merriam Road reconstruction project was approved recently by members of the Romulus City Council.

James Panos, Romulus Department of Public Works director, said while the project will not begin until 1993, he urged approval of the city half of the $110,000 right-of-way costs. Wayne County will pay the other half and will now proceed with the acquisition rights effort.

The $250,000 city portion of the total Merriam Road project had been previously approved.

Rotarians present donation

The first of four donations from the Belleville Rotary Club was presented to Fred C. Fischer Library Director Debra Green last Thursday by foundation president David Brown.

The $10,000 check from the Charles B. Cozadd Rotary Foundation, Inc., will be followed by a $5,000 donation in late June of 1992. Similar sums will be donated by the foundation in June of 1993 and June of 1994 to complete a $25,000 pledge for the library expansion.

"The funds will be used to furnish three separate areas within the library: the literacy area, the quiet room and the computer area," Green said.

Funding for the $500,000 capital expansion program, which will triple the size of the current facility, was obtained through a federal library grant and money allocated from Belleville, Sumpter Township and Van Buren Township, the three communities served by the library.

Second candidate enters bench race

Belleville attorney Josephine Chapman has announced her candidacy for a 34th District Court judgeship. She is challenging incumbent Henry Zaborowski, who has served as a district court judge for 18 years.

Chapman, a longtime Belleville resident, has a legal practice on Main Street, and is a member of the State Bar of Michigan and the Women Lawyers Association. She also is a member of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce, Central Business Community, Belleville Music Committee, Belleville-Van Buren Democratic Party and the Democratic Party of Michigan.

Josephine Chapman

She is a Wyandotte Roosevelt High School graduate, and received a degree from Eastern Michigan University before receiving a juris doctor degree from Thomas M. Cooley Law School.

Chapman's areas of practice have been in family law, criminal, probate, landlord-tenant and real estate. She has volunteered two evenings per month to serve as small claims mediator in the 34th District Court and has recently been appointed by the court to serve as counsel to indigent defendants. She has also been a referral attorney for United Auto Workers employees.

"The courts reflect the values of a society and must deal with those that come before it with absolute impartiality, and, regardless, how lowly the circumstances of an individual may be, under the law, everyone must be treated equally," Chapman said.

She said that the personal bias of a judge should not influence the court's treatment toward any one individual.

Chapman said she believes that all incumbents "should be replaced periodically by new blood" because long periods of incumbency results in stagnation and indifference.

A May 29 fundraiser is being planned. Ticket information is available by calling 697-4396 or 607-3200.

Mapping out plans

Senators pleased with redistricting

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The redrawn state legislative districts may be frustrating for most and too complicated for some, but local lawmakers came out of the remapping of their present districts relatively unscathed. "We lost Taylor but picked up some of the downriver communities," said Senator Bill Faust. "The reapportioned district really doesn't have any significant changes. Politically, it went from a 54 percent Democratic-base to 53 percent."

Faust, who will be completing his 25th year in the Senate in December, is the dean of the Michigan Senate. He added that he is pleased with the remapped version of the district. "I will miss so my friends in Taylor, but I am looking forward to renewing acquaintances in Canton and the downriver areas," Faust continued. "When I first came to the Senate I represented Canton."

Faust's district, presently the 12th, will be renamed the 8th. Also, Senator George Hart (D-Dearborn), who district includes Inkster, will find himself in the revamped 6th district.

The new 8th-district will incorporate most of the old 12th, including Westland, Wayne, Romulus, Van Buren, Huron and Sumpter townships and Belleville, but it adds the southern part of Canton Township and some of the downriver communities of Woodhaven, Flat Rock, Brownstown and Gibraltar.

Is Faust heading for a showdown with Christopher Dingell (7th District), who presently represents the downriver area and is the son of John Dingell (D-Dearborn), a political powerbroker who has served in Congress for the past two decades?

"No," said Faust. "Chris has announced that he will seek re-election in the new district and not in the 8th."

The senatorial seats are not up for re-election until 1994.

In the meantime, the revised 10th senatorial district, will be called the 6th, and the incumbent, Senator George Hart, also said he didn't have any problems with redrawn district.

The new district will include Inkster, Garden City, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights and pick up the city of Allen Park, while it will lose Melvindale.

"He's pleased (with the redistricting)," said David Wygonik, Hart's spokesperson. "It's not only a strong Democratic community, but, aside from the party politics, these communities have a common interest and the senator is looking forward to representing them in Lansing."

The architect of the new legislative districts was a three-judge panel appointed to redraw the districts. The reapportionment is mandated by the Constitution, and is based on the 1990 census.

The state Supreme Court has approved the reapportionment plan for all of the 38 state senate districts, but is reviewing five of the 110 House districts because of challenges. Incumbents in those districts feel the revisions violated the federal Voting Rights Act.

The five challenges do not involve local lawmakers or districts.

Candidates seeking a state House seat have until May 12 to file nominating petitions. There will be an Aug. 4 primary to narrow the field of candidates for the November general election.

Memorial aided

Members of the Romulus Festival Committee present Bill Crane, chairman of the Romulus Veterans Memorial Committee, with $1,000 to aid the planned veterans' memorial drive. The memorial will be unveiled outside City Hall July 4 and will contain a round bronze emblem citing the Romulus Festival Committee. Public forums planned State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton Township, has announced the scheduling of two open public forums in Belleville and Canton Township to offer area residents an opportunity to voice their opinions and concerns on state and local issues.

"The state is facing major reforms in school finance, property taxes and auto insurance," said Kosteva. "I believe it is pertinent that my constituents have the opportunity to meet with me personally to voice their concerns, not only regarding these issues but any difficulty they may have."

The forums are planned for 7 p.m. April 23 in the Victory Station, 7 South St. in Belleville, and for 7 p.m. April 30 at the Canton Public Library.

Judge plans to seek re-election

A longtime district court judge has announced his plans to seek re-election on the November ballot.

Thirty-fourth District Court Judge Henry Zaborowski, who has served as a district court judge for 18 years, made his announcement at a campaign organizational meeting attended by supporters from the five communities served by the district court. The jurisdiction of the court encompasses the cities of Belleville and Romulus and the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron.

During his tenure, Zaborowski has been instrumental in implementing many innovations to the court: the recent court expansion, the addition of a third judge and the mediation of all cases prior to trial.

"There is a movement throughout the country to find alternate ways to settle disputes," Zaborowski said. "We have mediation of all cases prior to trial, and we find that many of them can be settled through mediation with a savings of attorney fees and trial time. Small claims cases also are mediated, and 90 percent of them are settled. It is working well, and we expect to see mediation being used to settle neighborhood disputes in the future. We are hoping that some federal funds will become available to implement neighborhood mediation programs."

Zaborowski, a 51-year resident of Van Buren Township, attended Belleville High School. He is a graduate of Detroit Institute of Technology where he received bachelor degrees in business administration and law. He received his legal training from the Detroit College of Law, which he attended on a scholarship.

After receiving his bachelor of law and juris doctor degrees, Zaborowski received advanced professional education in the Comparative Judicial Study at the Michigan State University, the Institute of Criminology at Cambridge University and the British Academy of Forensic Sciences, both in England, and the National College of the State Judiciary at the University of Nevada.

Zaborowski is the former president of the Great Lakes Steel local union and served on the International Wage Police Committee. As a practicing attorney, he was attorney for Sumpter Township and the Romulus School Board.

He is a member of the Suburban Bar Association, Michigan Bar Association, Florida Bar Association and the American Judicature Society. Zaborowski is admitted to practice in all state courts in Michigan, including the Michigan Supreme Court, as well as in Florida, the Supreme Court of the United States and the Federal District Court. He is also a former member of the Panel of Arbitrators of the American Arbitration Association.

Zaborowski is a U.S. Army veteran and a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Polish League of American Veterans, Polish National Alliance and U.S. Power Squadron. He is a Mason and Shriner.

The district court judge is

married to the former Patricia Ann Wilson and has three children.

A Spaghetti Dinner has been scheduled by the Committee to Re-Elect Judge Zaborowski from 5 to 8 p.m. April 8 at the PNA Hall, 18340 Sumpter Road. Ticket information is available by contacting Mark Maironis, 697-0000.

Guilty by association

The recent public outrage regarding the alleged improprieties in Washington D.C. are somewhat confusing to us. Have we not all known for years that those elected to federal office enjoy privileges and courtesies unknown to the common man. Why is it with such shock, surprise and outrage voters discover that these men of our government receive special treatment unknown and unaccorded others?

We speak, primarily, of the recently revealed banking privileges these individuals enjoyed and the shock waves of dismay and disapproval which have undulated across the country with the revelations of the manner in which these elected representatives handled their banking accounts.

While we might be the first to cast a stone considering that such conduct would be considered improper by those of us who do not wear the mantle of elected office, this entire scandal seems to us to have prompted a bit of an overreaction by some.

If such privilege does not go with rank, someone should have told these individuals long ago. If it is not appropriate for them to enjoy these banking privileges, then is it also not appropriate for them to enjoy their officeholders' accounts into which hundreds of thousands of dollars are deposited each year? Is it also inappropriate for them to be allowed to park their vehicles places where anyone else would either pay an amount equal to the gross national product of some small countries or receive a whopping fine?

Why are these individuals criminals because they availed themselves of a privilege and a courtesy which seemed to be a mark of their elected status?

Because today people are angry. The economy has affected each and every one of us and made our lives more difficult. People are looking for solutions to the hunger and poverty they see depicted each night on the news. People in America are feeling the results of poorly-chosen leaders with no policies or attitudes and policies which have not been successful.

We, each of us, wants an end to the recession in our economy. We want an end to the desperation we feel and see in others. We want jobs for our young people and we want care for our elderly. We want to feel that everyone understands our pain and our efforts to attempt to help.

And when it is revealed that those elected to lead our country and represent us may be abusing the privileges we have accorded them, we get angry.

We want to feel that these individuals are as distraught as we are by the visual impact of starving families living on river banks brought into our homes on the evening news. We want them as concerned as we are about the homeless, the aged and the poor. We don't want them to avail themselves of these special privileges which remove them from the reality of the terrible pain and havoc which the present economy has wreaked throughout our country. How many workers at the Willow Run plant wouldn't enjoy free parking and free meals at some privileged dining room? How many laid off Flint workers' families could these officeholders' account expenses feed?

But perhaps it is time for a reality check.

It is unfair and counterproductive of us to paint our local politicians and leaders with the same brush with which we have colored the actions of those in federal office. It is the tendency of the American voter to lash out at those closest and most accessible in times such as these.

We caution that this could cost us many fine legislators and local officeholders.

If those in Washington have gotten out of control, it is only because the American public allowed it to happen. Perhaps through our apathy at the polls and our lack of attention to national issues and politics, we share in the responsibility for this situation.

But to inflict our anger on our local politicians and leaders is an exercise in futility.

If there is something wrong in Washington, we need to fix it in the voting booth, but not at the expense of the fine, caring, serving and true public servants in this area and in Lansing.

When we level our criticisms, whatever they may be, we need to ensure that we have directed our anger at the proper targets.

Then we need to aim carefully and shoot the arrows of our ballots straight to the heart.

Senior group and director praised

To the editor:

I moved here as a stranger, and found a lot of friends. Hope we meet on Newburg, where Friendship (Center) never ends.

There are many "clubs" under one roof at the Friendship Center headed by a super director that has a way of making things happen for the good of all concerned members.

One club is the travel group and members worked long hours raising money through fundraisers, raffles, personal donations and by soliciting of businesses, friends and relatives. They raised well over $60,000 to purchase a senior tour coach because they needed a larger, more comfortable means of transportation for trips sponsored by the Friendship Center. Each senior trip has a waiting list due to lack of seating.

The project became a reality when city council members in Westland approved the purchase of a bus without a wheelchair lift 5-1 with one absent. The bus was ordered and then Westland lost two seats on the council and replaced them with two others. For whatever reason, the issue of a new bus found it's (sic) way onto the agenda a second time and this time the vote was 4-3 against a new bus without a wheelchair lift.

Do they keep voting on an issue until it goes our way? The purpose of a new bus was to add more passenger seats. A wheelchair lift would take away those extra seats.

No. Senior citizens are not against handicapped seniors. They feel they would be more comfortable on a new 12-15 passenger van donated to the Senior Friendship Center by Red Holman. The handicapped are always considered first. Proof is in the pudding. Check it out.

Some groups voiced an opinion that half the fun is on the bus during travel time--only if you have a six-pack under each arm. The passengers are seniors that have passed the six-pack stage in their lives. They must have been enjoying the trips or they would not have participated.

The Westland Eagle distributed on March 19 shows a character cartoon of a lady driver bowling over regulating signposts. Yes, this lady does all she can to keep the Senior Friendship Center running as smooth as silk.

It is a tremendous task to keep so many activities under one roof to serve such a great number of citizens of Westland. And this lady has the know-how to keep seniors active and productive.

If you want to play hard ball politics then you should put four heads on the cartoon because there are four bucking the U.S. system by defying the ruling of the federal government when it comes to regulations that govern the installation of wheelchair lifts on buses.

The seniors of the Friendship Center are in the legal and moral right in their stand on a bus without a wheelchair lift according to the Secretary of Transportation, Washington, D.C.

If you do nothing, you can do nothing wrong. Jesus Christ was a good man and He was crucified. Only those that do what is good for others are criticized.

And, Sue, I do sign my name to articles and documents initiated by me.

Agnes E. Zidzik
Westland

(Editor's note: The federal American With Disabilities Act effective January 1992 prohibits discrimination against the handicapped and requires that all municipal buildings and services provide for the needs of the disabled. To do otherwise is a violation of federal law.)

Resident offers financial advice to school district

To the editor:

There is plenty of money in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools coffers now. But there will not be plenty forever. Therefore, something must be done by the board of education now to assure that cost-saving efforts are in operation.

The effect of the 7.75 mill increase in June 1991 has not hit most homeowners yet. Only those who pay their property taxes directly have seen the huge increases in July and December. Most homeowners who pay their taxes through their mortgage escrow will not feel the effect of the huge tax increase until the mortgage companies adjust their house payments in February or March.

The the $4.4 million fund balance which was accumulated without the 7.75 mills will look even bigger. In June 1992, when the projected fund balance is $8.7 million, those tax increases will look enormous.

What can be done now? Two things need to take place at the end of the 1992 school year, and must begin now to happen then.

1) The ninth grade students need to be transferred to the high schools in September 1992.

In the process of complying with the Schools of Choice within a school district in the 1992-93 school year, the high school enrollments must be adjusted to equalize the number of students and to guarantee racial balance per the impending legislation.

When this has been done, then the option is to create middle schools with grades six, seven and eight; or to keep grades seven and eight together, and be able to close a junior high building. If the middle school option is chosen, the possibility exists for closing three elementary buildings whose enrollments will drop below 300.

2) At the same time, an Early Retirement Incentive for all staff must be inaugurated.

The aging staff must be encouraged to retire early so that replacements receiving half the salary can be hired, or layoffs from "downsizing" can be kept at a minimum. In the process of trimming the staff, a complete reorganization of the administration to comply with the Public Act 25 concept of site-based decision making can also be accomplished.

In these days of transition, the board of education must provide the necessary leadership to cut operational costs before another contrived or real emergency occurs again.

David F. Moranty, Chairman
Wayne-Westland Citizens For Education Committee

Cartoon criticized

To the editor:

This is in protest of the caricature of Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek in the March 19-25 issue of The Westland Eagle.

As the director of her city office, she has always been dedicated to policies, rules, procedures, regulations which your sketch indicates to the contrary. Her dedication should be duplicated by many others in city offices, including four of the current council members.

Seniors unite to defend position regarding bus

To the editor:

It seems that The Westland Observer and The Westland Eagle newspapers are quick to accuse the Westland seniors of discrimination against the disabled.

Have you tried to listen to the seniors' story? Not so!

Have you taken your information from Mr. Pickering, Ken Mehl, Sharon Scott (who is Ken Mehl's mother-in-law, so we have a nepotism vote there) and Mr. Brown of our city council?

First, let us, the seniors involved, say that we are not against the disabled. Not now, nor have we ever discriminated against the less fortunate. Many of us are disabled.

This is the true story of how the senior bus situation came about.

Two years ago, many of the seniors decided to have a bus of our own, "Westland Senior Citizen Friendship Bus." We approached director Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek with our ideas. Mrs. Wiacek placed our wishes before the mayor.

We, the seniors, were then notified that the city would donate $75,000 seed money to enable us to start our project, our dream, a bus of our own.

We progressed to make our dream come true. We raised money by hard work: bake sales, raffles, parties, dinners, private senior monetary donations and donations from private Westland businesses.

We also opened up the option for personal donations and donations from businesses to purchase seats on the bus. A $500 donation bought a seat on the bus with an engraved plaque, indicating the donor's name or dedicating the seat in memory of a loved one.

Our dream for our bus was a hard one to accomplish. We tirelessly worked toward our goal. After two years, we raised over $62,000. On Dec. 16, 1991 the city council passed the resolution that we would have our bus.

Suddenly, in 1992, we were told that the resolution passed in 1991 was void, and we would have to install a wheelchair lift on the bus.

This would mean a loss of 12 seats and $6,000 from donors. This money would have to be returned to the people purchasing the seats. We were also told it was illegal to have a bus without a lift.

We investigated and found it was perfectly legal because our bus was a demand-response service, not a fixed route charter bus, and that a bus without a lift may be purchased as long as an alternate service was provided for individuals with disabilities. This information was obtained from: R. Lopez from the Federal Transit Administration, Washington, D. C.; Tom Enge, Urban Mass Transportation Administration, Office of Grant Management, Washington, D. C.; Senator Bill Faust, citing information obtained from Phil Kazmiersky, Michigan Department of Transportation; and Don Dirks, Suburban Mobility Authority Regional Transportation (SMART bus line).

We were then accused of the immorality of not wanting wheelchair participants on our bus.

Not so! Did you not hear at the council meeting that Red Holman was donating a 15-passenger van? The seniors would contribute to the installation of the lift. Also, Westhaven Manor (a sister facility of Westgate Towers) offered the use of their van with a lift any time it was needed.

All this information was distorted, saying we were discriminating against the wheelchair people by segregating them. Not so! We, the seniors, would also ride in the van. It would not be segregation; it would be an extension of the planned tour enabling more of our senior group to also attend these functions.

It was mentioned that the wheelchair people would miss the fun of games, playing cards, etc., in the van. If we did this on the bus, it would be applicable to the 15 passengers in the van. We are talking transportation, not fun and games.

No one listened to us; no one cared about our side of this situation. They claimed we were discriminating against the handicapped. Not so! If there is any discrimination, it is against the seniors.

In your paper, you claimed we were rude to Mr. Pickering. Let me remind you of his rudeness to Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek when she asked to speak on our behalf. He bluntly refused her. Only then did we boo him, and he was forced to let her speak. That was discrimination. We also say, "dirty politics."

It would seem Mr. Pickering is playing God. He decided we could not have representation from our own director. He did not even take a vote with the council. He completely ignored the written request from three of the council members, Terri Reighard-Johnson, Sandra Cicirelli and Glenn Anderson, stating that every organization had a right to be represented by its director.

At the final voting session of the council, Mr. Pickering stated: "I have a right to change my mind." He completely changed his vote at this session from his vote in 1991 agreeing to the bus.

Not good enough, Mr. Pickering. Yes, you have a right to change your mind, but you are a public figure put there by the citizens and seniors of Westland. Where are the valid, true reasons for changing your mind? Discrimination against the seniors. Dirty politics.

We proved the legality of obtaining a bus without a lift. We proved we care about the wheelchair people by providing special transportation for those that are 55 years and over residing in Westland and members of our Friendship Senior Center, which is also open to 12,000 seniors of Westland. There is no question of our morality. We are blameless.

All this was ignored and distorted as well as a complete disregard for our dream and hard work which meant nothing to the council president, Mr. Pickering, Ken Mehl; Sharon Scott; and Mr. Brown. We didn't expect Ken Mehl and Sharon Scott to vote against each other. We repeat—Sharon Scott is Ken Mehl's mother-in-law. We have a true nepotism situation, which we will rectify.

We, the seniors of Westland, were accused of discrimination. Isn't it the other way around? We seniors are in an age bracket of 55 years to over 90 years. We need to achieve our dream. This is not just a handful of 750 seniors in a travel club writing this. There are over 2,000 members at the Friendship Center. All have contributed in one way or another toward this bus. What started out as a sincere endeavor toward a dream and a goal has been blown out of proportion, thanks to the city council members who are playing vendetta politics.

Remember, there at 12,000 seniors in Westland paying taxes and voting.

The headlines in the paper stated that the senior bus will have a lift. We, the seniors, do not want the bus with the lift.

We negotiated to buy a bus with our own designs, etc., a bus to use on tours and outings to replace our old bus (bought in 1978 for a cost of $52,000).

We were willing to keep on striving to raise more funds above the donation of $75,000 from the city of Westland. In reality, the city of Westland was going to have a brand new bus for seniors with only a $25,000 new investment that would last over 15 years.

We worked hard to raise the $62,000 plus for our bus, and are entitled to have our monies refunded. We do want our money refunded.

The smears that have been printed about Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, our director, are definitely unfounded and political. She has always been fair and honest in any situation. She has always helped anyone who asked for her assistance in any situation, not only in Westland but from all areas. Her integrity speaks for itself.

The proof that this is a political vendetta is the splash The Westland Eagle Associated Newspapers printed against Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek—not true. She has always adhered to and supported all legalities and rules of any situation. The integrity of The Westland Eagle is certainly in jeopardy to print such information with no proof. But it does prove their venomous political vendetta against Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek and the seniors.

The 1992 Associated Newspapers

All-Area

Scott Helmstadter has been selected as one of the captains for the Plymouth-Salem 1992-93 team. A junior, who is an outstanding student-athlete, Scott is a versatile swimmer who fits into the lineup of the Rocks' 200-medley and 400-freestyle relays. He swims a 1:41.99 for the backstroke and finished sixth in the WYAA in that event. He helped the Rocks to a fourth place in the WLAA in the medley relay (1:41.99) and a fifth-place in the freestyle relay (3:29.80).

Matt Erickson, also a Plymouth-Salem junior, set the pace for the Rocks in 1992. Picked for the Coaches' Award and selected as one of the captains, Matt turned in a 2:07.30 for the 200-individual medley. He is also a member of the medal-winning Rocks' 200-medley and 400-freestyle relay teams. Erickson qualified for the state in the 100-butterfly (55.07) and also competed in the state finals as a member of the medley and freestyle relay teams.

Aaron Berlin continued to set the standard for the distance freestyle events for Salem. Described by the coaches as a "very hard worker", Aaron was a state qualifier in the 400-freestyle relay. He finished with a sixth-place medal for the 500-freestyle (5:01.18) in the WYAA and also placed eighth in the conference for the 200-freestyle (51.59). Swimmers and coaches singled Berlin out as "the Most Improved Swimmer" on the team for 1992.

Brett Petroskey brought the curtains down on an outstanding prep career this season. He was a member of the Rocks' 200 and 400-freestyle relay teams and also was clocked in 2:09.98 for the 200-individual medley. His efforts helped the team finish a strong third in the WYAA Conference. In the conference, Brett finished 11th in the 200-individual medley (2:09.98); sixth in the 100-freestyle (51.42); third in the 200-freestyle relay (1:31.27); fifth in the 400-freestyle relay (3:29.80).

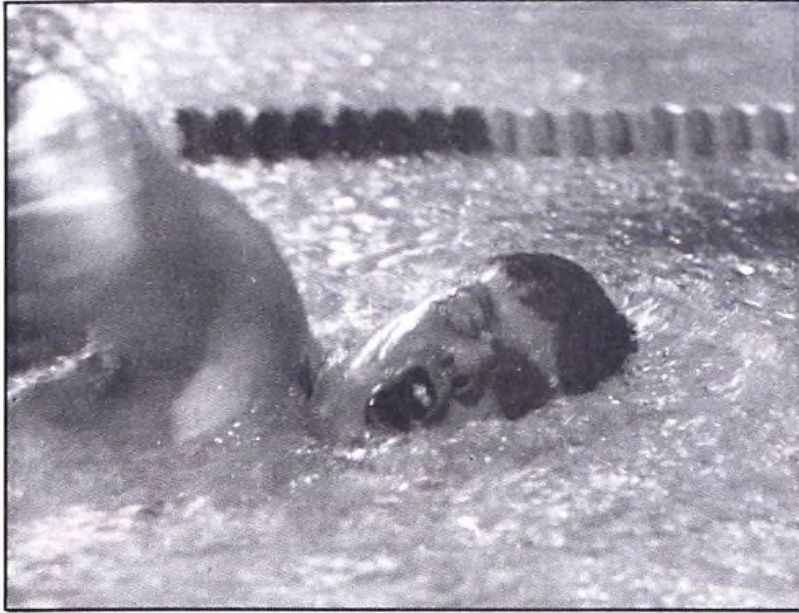

Jeff Clark, a sophomore from Plymouth-Canton, is a scholar-swimmer. He carries a 3.9 GPA. Coaches note that he has a great future as a swimmer. Jeff churns an impressive 22.63 for the 50-freestyle and finished fifth in the event and the 100-freestyle at the conference championships. He swam on the Chiefs' state-qualifying 200-medley relay team and the 400-freestyle relay that placed 12th in state competitions.

Nick Atwell, a senior from Canton, completed his senior year with an unblemished record in dual meet competition on the diving boards. Nick finished with the silver medal at the WYAA championships and went on to qualify for the state meet. A team captain, Atwell received the Coaches' Award for Leadership and Dedication. Coaches note that the talented diver also worked with the younger divers. He will be difficult to replace, they added.

Steve Salhaney, also a senior diver, amassed an enviable 271.35 points for six dives and, during 11-dive competition, piled up an impressive 435.35 points. Steve had an outstanding senior year. He was a MISCA meet qualifier and a regional finalist. He capped his senior year with the Western Lakes Conference diving title. One of the captains of the team, Steve Salhaney also earned the unique honor of the Rocks' Most Valuable Swimmer for 1992.

Hard work pays off for Belleville coach

Those who want to swim for a Frank Vicchy team, have to pay the price.

The Belleville High swim coach has little patience for those who cough up excuses. He expects the best from his team.

"Swimming is a difficult sport," the veteran of 34 years of coaching says. "You have to put in your time. There is sacrifice and hard work involved, but the dividends are there as well. You learn about discipline, not only physical, but mental. Swimming is one sport that stays with you for the rest of your life."

Vicchy may not have had the best record of the area coaches - his Tigers finished with a 9-5. But area coaches recognize the outstanding work he has done with the talent he had.

When asked, "Who deserves to be the Coach of the Year", area coaches unanimously replied - Frank Vicchy.

And the ANP sports staff agrees.

Vicchy began his coaching career in the late 1960s at Slippery Rock High School in Pennsylvania and his teams were among the best. Three years ago he decided to join his brother, Sam, at Belleville High School. Sam Vicchy also coached Belleville swim teams before turning to cross country.

To be successful, Frank

Frank Vicchy

Vicchy believes that the high school program must have a continuous supply of new talent.

"What we need is to revive the swim club here and hopefully it will give kids a start that will continue through the grade schools, middle school and then into high school," Vicchy said.

To accomplish that goal, Vicchy says he is looking for assistant coaches and young swimmers for the Tiger Swim Club.

A coach, as we all know, never rests. If you are interested, contact the ANP Coach of the Year at 697-8985 or show up at 5:30 p.m. on Monday or Tuesday at the high school to register.

Pat Lancaster, a state qualifier, helped the Canton 400-freestyle relay team finish 12th at state. A senior, Lancaster wrapped up his prep career with a silver medal in the conference for his performance in the 100-yard freestyle event. He also finished fifth for the 200-freestyle event (1:49.62). His times for those events and the 50-freestyle qualified him for the state finals.

Dan Barnett is a member of the record-setting Wayne Memorial 200-freestyle relay team. Voted to the all-Wolverine 'A' Conference team, Barnett has carded a 1:03.92 for the 100-breaststroke, an event in which he was runner up at the league championships. A junior, Barnett continued to improve after every meet, according to his coaches. A state qualifier in 1991, Barnett has the distinction of turning in the best performance in the "WAC" for 1992.

Craig Steshetz, a team leader, can swim in just about any event. His 1:02.95 for the 100-breaststroke put him among the best in the class. The junior also has a bronze medal for his efforts in the 50-freestyle and also helped the Canton 200-yard medley relay finish fourth in the conference. Also, a member of the second-place (in conference) finishing 400-freestyle relay team that advanced to the state where it finished 12th.

Swim Team

Tom McIntyre is a coach's dream who is a tireless worker and a great team leader. A senior, McIntyre is a member of the record-setting 200-freestyle team (1:32.28). His best times for the 50-freestyle and the 100-freestyle are 22.81 and 51.12, where he finished second and third-place conference. McIntyre has a 4.0 GPA to go along with his athletic ability. A state qualifier, McIntyre was one of the tri-captains during the 1992 campaign.

Mark Ealovega also is a 4.0 student who, after finishing with a silver medal in the 100-butterfly (54.68), qualified for the state championships. He also is a member of the outstanding Canton 200-medley relay team that holds the school record. The recipient of the Coaches' Award for leadership, Ealovega also was picked for the Patrick Gilligan Memorial Award, presented to the swimmer who displays the most dedication and leadership on the team.

Chris Lynn, a Salem junior, has slashed his times remarkably over a short period of time. His efforts in the 100-butterfly (56.95) earned him a ninth place finish at the WYAA championships, and he also finished 11th in the conference for the 100-backstroke (59.86) this year. Lynn's teammates have selected him as one of the captains of the Rocks 1992-1993 team. He also earned the honor of being the Most Improved Swimmer on the club this season.

Jason Bodden, a versatile athlete who also excelled in football, captured a gold medal for his 50-freestyle performance (22.73) in the Wolverine 'A' Conference. Bodden also is a member of the Zebras' record-setting 200-freestyle relay team. His best time for the 100-freestyle is 50.68. Bodden is an outstanding student and athlete, who has a lot of athletic talent. Before ending his prep career, Bodden was ranked among the top swimmers in the state in the 50-freestyle.

Dave Bracht is one of two freshman to break into the All-Area swim ranks. Voted the MVP freshman swimmer, Bracht was a member of the state-qualifying Salem 200-medley and the 200-freestyle relay teams. He has covered the 100-freestyle in a fast 50.83. He wears a third-place conference medal for his part on the 200-freestyle relay (1:31.27) and also placed fourth in the conference in the 100-freestyle (50.83) and the 200-medley relay (1:41.99).

Michael Orris qualified for the state finals in seven events. The Canton sophomore helped set the varsity records in six events, including the 200-freestyle relay (1:40.31), 200-freestyle (1:46.03), 500-freestyle (5:51.99), 200-freestyle relay (1:31.09), 100-backstroke (57.28) and the 400-freestyle relay (3:17.97). The talented swimmer also picked up a silver medal for his efforts in the conference in the 200-freestyle and also finished fourth in the conference in the 500-freestyle.

Joe Ervin personifies the adage about hard work paying off. One of two freshmen on the All-Area team, Ervin has been clocked in 5:11.35 for the 500-freestyle and also is a member of the Salem 400-freestyle relay team that has produced a 3:29.80 for the event. Coaches say he is an outstanding freshman, who is going to shatter a score of records if he continues to keep his hard-working ethics.

Fred Locke, a sophomore at Salem High, became a key component on the freestyle relay team. His off-season work paid off as he made the grade on the state-qualifying 200-freestyle relay. The team finished third in the state (1:31.27). Locke also competed in the 50-freestyle event and came away with a 23.67 performance that placed him 14th in the final standings.

Phil Hoffmeyer, who also hails from Salem, led the way for a group of inexperienced breast-strokers. The 16-year-old junior placed 11th in the conference in the 100-breaststroke (1:05.34) and, as a member of the 200-medley relay team, earned a fourth place in the conference. The medley foursome was clocked in 1:41.99. Next year, as a senior, Hoffmeyer should have a lot of success, coaches note.

Matt Tertel was in the lineup of the outstanding Plymouth-Canton 400-freestyle relay team that qualified for the state finals after finishing second to league champ, Stevenson, at the Western Lakes Athletic Association championship. Tertel is described by his coaches as a "very hard worker who has great potential." Tertel also helped set a school record in the 400-freestyle relay (3:19.81).

Kass Allie of Westland came home to Wayne to open his new Michigan Mini-Mart on Michigan Avenue.

Resident opens business

If getting those last minute necessities ends up being a chore at the end of a day, a new mini-mart gas station in Wayne wants to make that hardship a bit easier.

Kass Allie, owner of Michigan Mini-Mart, 38800 Michigan Ave., provides a 24-hour gas/food service for western Wayne County residents.

"We have facilities for trucks and cars," Allie said. "We have the lowest prices in town on cigarettes, milk and other products."

Michigan Mini-Mart has a variety of munchies, household detergents, pop and candy. Besides food and gas, the establishment also provides an air facility for tires and a vacuum for vehicles.

"Our motto here is we have total quality assurance at a fair price," Allie said.

Allie is considering an addition to the mini-mart in the near future. He would like to build a car wash.

The former Wayne resident now resides in Westland. He decided to return to his home town to establish a business due to the professional atmosphere in the Wayne community.

"It's really due to the business atmosphere in Wayne," Allie said. "There is a lot of potential in this city. The people are very cooperative."

The grand opening for Michigan Mini-Mart was March 10.

Youngster loses toe in escalator accident

By DENNIS MANSFIELD
ANP Staff Writer

For an 8-year-old Canton Township girl, a shopping trip to Crowley's in Livonia Mall March 25 was more expensive than anticipated, costing her part of her left big toe.

While going up an escalator, Nichole Caincross' shoelace became entangled in an escalator, pulling her left foot into the automated stairs and causing her foot to get caught in the upper plate of the escalator, according to accounts of the incident.

"It all happened one-two-three," said Cheryl Caincross, Nichole's mother. "My son and I were right behind her, five or six steps. Once it got hold, it just kept pulling."

Emergency units of the Livonia Fire Department responded and used pry bars to dislodge Nichole's foot, but it was too late and her left big toe was partially amputated in the accident, according to official reports.

The Canton youngster was taken to Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills. Two and a half hours of surgery were needed to repair Nichole's foot, which had all five toes fractured and required stitches inside and out, her mother said.

"I just wanted to get her home," Caincross said. "When it happened, she must have gone into shock because she was just too good."

Her mother characterized the third-grader at Hoben Elementary as a youngster who loved the outdoors and was looking forward to spring. With her twin brother, Cory, about to start playing soccer and her plans for gymnastic classes, Caincross said this spring could be an anxious time for Nichole.

"Unless it heals real fast, she's going to get frustrated," said Caincross. "She won't be able to do things she is used to doing. I think it's really going to start bothering her."

Caincross said it is premature to say if Nichole will have any permanent disabilities because of the accident. Nichole, who came home from the hospital Wednesday, is currently undergoing physical therapy three times a week, Caincross said.

"The little girl was tremendous," said Mike Toloff, vice president of stores and operations for Crowley's. "She was a brave little girl."

"It was a freak thing," he added. "We had just had the escalators inspected by the state. The checks were all fine."

While Toloff said he does not expect a lawsuit against the store, Caincross stated that is a question that has yet to be answered.

"I'm seeking legal counsel," Caincross said. "I'm looking at my options and really can't say anything at this time."

Last minute tax tips

With April 15 just around the corner, many people are still searching for ways to reduce their tax burden.

Bernie Kent, tax partner from Coopers and Lybrand, offers the following tips if you must burn the midnight oil come tax day, or are looking ahead to filing next year.

- Job hunting expenses can be deductible. Telephone calls, travel expenses, employment agency fees, and resume costs are some of the itemized expenses that are deductible. Only the amount of the miscellaneous itemized deductions that exceeds 2 percent of adjusted gross income is deductible. "To claim any of these deductions, the expenses must be for seeking a job in your present line of work," Kent said. "This does not include career changes."

- Employees who did not make adjustments for the decrease in federal withholdings enacted by President George Bush automatically began having around $5 less in federal taxes withheld each week beginning March 1. This will amount to approximately $200 or $300 less taxes withheld at the end of the year. Notify your employer if you want the taxes withheld, Kent said.

- "For couples, filing separately often can be advantageous to joining returns, when both spouses have incomes and one has several medical or miscellaneous deductions, Kent said.

- "If you purchase a home," Kent said, "mortgage points are deductible in most cases."

- Some of the more common miscellaneous itemized deductions include: alimony, job-relocation moving costs, casualty losses not covered by insurance, charitable contributions, state and local taxes, and home office equipment and expenses.
